BLAST, FIRE WRECK HOUSE IN NORTH END

Residence Bursts into Flames Immediately Following Explosion.

OCCUPANTS NOT AT HOME

Entire Side of Building Blown Away by Mystery Blast.

An explosion from an unknown cause that aroused the North End of the city, followed by a rapidly spreading fire, destroyed the home of William O. Mead of 717 north State street early this morning. The loss on the house and contents was estimated by Fire Chief McFarland at $4,500. Mead could not be reached today.

Blast Rocks Houses

Shortly after 2 a. m. residents of the North End in the vicinity of Fairground street, were aroused from their sleep by an explosion that shook their windows, an instant later the two-story frame house occupied by the Meads at 717 north State street, was discovered in flames. When firemen from the central and No. 2 stations arrived they found smoke and flame pouring from each remaining window of the house, the entire north side of the dwelling having been blown out by the force of the explosion.

The Meads were absent from home at the time of the fire, Mrs. Mead, according to neighbors, is visiting in the west and Mr. Mead told employes at the Haberman Chevrolet Co. where he is employed as a salesman that he would be out of the city over Sunday.

So rapidly did the fire spread that in spite of the efforts of firemen, only a portion of the frame structure was saved. Reports by several of the neighbors that they heard a woman scream following the explosion, prompted firemen to make a thorough search of the ruins, although no evidence that anyone had been caught in the fire could be found.

HOKE DONITHEN IN COLUMBUS HOSPITAL

Prominent Marionite Undergoes Emergency Operation at Noon Today.

Hoke Donithen, Marion attorney, this afternoon was in serious condition in Grant hospital in Columbus, where he underwent an emergency operation at noon.

Donithen was taken to the hospital Friday afternoon by his nephew, Alfred Donithen, who is also his law partner. The operation this noon was performed when he became suddenly worse.

Although no definite information about the operation was given out at Columbus this afternoon, his friends here said he expected to undergo an abdominal operation if his condition did not improve.

Donithen was campaign manager for Calvin Coolidge in the campaign for the presidency, and was also a close friend of President Harding. He is chairman of the executive committee of the President Harding Memorial association, and was in charge of all plans for the dedication of the memorial here last month by President Hoover and former President Coolidge.

HOOVER SEEKS MEANS OF AIDING GERMANY

President Turns Undivided Attention to Credit Crisis of Foreign Nation.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 13—President Hoover turned his undivided attention today to the German financial situation.

Returning from his Rapidan camp where he spent the week-end, the chief executive found a number of important communications concerning German's plight on his desk and immediately began a study of them.

Additional information came to him from the state department, the treasury and press reports.

All available sources were used by the White House to keep in close contact with the situation, although it was said that the chief executive had not communicated directly with Ambassador Sackett nor with any other official in Germany.

White House officials were puzzled over reports of telephonic communications supposed to have come to the President Friday and Saturday. It was said no such calls had been received. Information has come through regular diplomatic channels, however.

Acting Secretary Mills of the treasury department, who participated in week-end conferences in New York with various financial authorities, had an engagement ...

AMERICAN OFFICERS STONED BY FILIPINOS

Outbreak Occurs During Mammoth Independence Demonstration by Islanders in Manila.

By The Associated Press

MANILA, July 13—A group of American army officers and their wives was stoned by an angry crowd of Filipinos here yesterday while other islanders were participating in an independence demonstration before two United States senators.

Several Americans were hit. Captain Fred Adams of the thirty-first infantry, and Robert Davis, son of an army officer, were injured, but not seriously.

The incident occurred at the open air swimming pool of the Army and Navy club when the crowd of Filipinos, evidently curious, overran the grounds. Ordered off the grounds, the islanders became incensed and started throwing stones.

The police were called, but only one officer was available, the others being busy handling the independence crowd several blocks distant. About 20 members of the club formed a phalanx and cleared the grounds, using their fists in a few instances.

The independence demonstration, staged for Senator Harry B. Hawes of Missouri and Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, advocates of Philippine freedom, drew a throng estimated at between 100,000 and 200,000 persons. Another 50,000 participated in a parade described as a gesture to convince the senators that the people of the islands were united in their desire for political freedom.

The crowd was so dense that only a fraction of the paraders was able to pass the reviewing stand, in which Hawes and Pitman stood.

Both senators spoke, asserting the demonstration was the most convincing proof they had yet seen of the desire of the people for independence.

GERMANY ACTS SPEEDILY TO HALT FINANCIAL CHAOS

Government Assumes Responsibility for Guarantees of 30-Million Dollar Bank When It Suspends Payments Today.

CABINET STILL SEEKS FOREIGN CREDIT

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, July 13—Directing all its energies toward saving the nation from financial ruin, the German government today issued an emergency decree taking over guarantees of the $30,000,000 Darmstaedter and National Bank, which has suspended payments because of the drain on its resources by constantly rising demands for foreign currencies.

The run which closed Darmstaedter extended in some degree to other banks this morning, and to help prevent the panic from spreading the government closed the stock exchange for today and tomorrow.

Jacob Goldschmidt, head of Darmstaedter, and regarded one of the ablest bankers in Germany, asserted today a moratorium should have been declared by all the German banks weeks ago, and it ought to be declared immediately. He blamed his bank's crash on the press of the political opposition which "crystallized vague fears into the one specific fear that our bank was unsound."

Remains at Posts

Meantime, the cabinet, whose members are worn by the constant sessions of several days past, remained on the job.

Dr. Hans Luther, whose efforts to obtain French participation in a foreign credit for the Reichsbank were unsuccessful in that the government declined to accept conditions imposed by France, left by plane this morning for Basel to attend a meeting of the world bank directors there.

On the doors of the great Darmstaedter und National bank, one of the five largest in the country, with capital and reserves of about $30,000,000, on its 63 branches in Berlin and on others throughout the Reich hung notice that it had been compelled to suspend payment.

Protective Program

To protect other banks and the general credit structure of the country, the government decided to issue an emergency decree binding all important banks into a credit block through which any weak unit would be protected by the assets of all, and creating a special "commissioner of division" with extraordinary powers to combat the alarming run on foreign currencies.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and his cabinet members, worn out by 40 hours of almost continuous efforts to save German credit and industry broke up their conference with leading bankers early this morning and snatched a few hours sleep in preparation for resuming the struggle later on in the day.

A decree embodying substantially the same measures as are contemplated now would have been promulgated last night—it was already in type—but the bankers developed unexpected stubborn opposition, fighting against making themselves liable for the huge losses of the Danat bank.

When the bank finally was thrown overboard with the government itself assuming to guarantee its deposits, the financial leaders seemed more inclined to enter a national credit block whereby they would stand or fall together. By this time, however, the morning papers had gone to press and it would have been impossible to reach the breakfast tables with the decree.

Although it was known that the Danat bank had been involved in the crash of the Nordwolle concern in Bremen, one of Germany's largest wool-combing and worsted-spinning firms, yet other banks were not affected.

Established in 1856, it paid a dividend of eight per cent in 1930.

BANKS OF U. S. READY TO HELP

But Any Move To Save Germany Must Start in Europe, Is Stand Taken.

MEETING SET FOR TODAY

German Crisis Expected To Be Considered at Conference in Basel.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 13—American banking interests are understood by the Hoover administration to be ready to assist European central banks in relieving Germany's critical economic situation.

The administration, however, has taken the view that any plan for preventing the financial collapse of the German government should originate with principal European banks.

The attitude of the American government was made known last night by Acting Secretary Castle of the state department upon his return from spending the week-end with President Hoover in Virginia. Shortly before issuing a formal statement, he conferred with Ambassador Claudel of France, but neither disclosed the nature of the discussion.

Meeting Today

The heads of the principal European central banks, including the Bank of England and the Bank of France," Castle said, "are meeting tomorrow (Monday) morning in Basel, Switzerland, with the bank of international settlements. They will no doubt consider the German banking crisis.

"Obviously, any plan for a banking solution of the situation must originate from these banks which are on the ground and it is my understanding that our bankers are prepared to consider assistance in any effective plan of relief that they may evolve."

The German situation was attracting considerable attention in official circles but in New York. Acting Secretary Mills of the treasury, coadvisor with Castle to the President, on the matter, officially said this government could not take action. Direct responsibility of caring for Germany's plight was placed on Europe by Mills.

Calls Situation "Grave"

A telegram to the state department from American Ambassador Sackett at Berlin described the financial crisis in Germany as grave. Castle said the message forecast that it would be difficult to visualize what would happen if the impending collapse materialized.

SHRINE OPENS ANNUAL FETE

Ohio Temples in Spotlight in Today's Program at Cleveland.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., July 13—It was Ohio's day today at the convention of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine assembled here from over North America, as 10,000 uniformed members of six temples in the state paraded through downtown streets.

After the parade, the Ohio Shriners were to gather at the public auditorium to see 750 initiates trail across the blazing sands.

It was "happy days" in Cleveland as 100,000 delegates and their friends and relatives partook in convention festivities. Little groups on street corners joined in singing such songs as "The King's Horses and the King's Men," while bands and drum corps of all sizes in blazing uniforms of all hues "marched down the street and marched back again."

Nearly a score of special trains bearing their gaily bedecked passengers arrived at various Cleveland stations yesterday and a like number was expected today.

Yesterday the biggest event was the arrival of Imperial Potentate Esten A. Fletcher of Rochester, N. Y., who was escorted from the Union terminal by 60 members of his imperial bodyguard.

A dash of the Wild West was added to the colorful throngs when members of the Mandan Shrine club of El Zagal temple, Fargo, N. D., stepped from the train. They were dressed as Indians with their faces war painted. They said two of their members were full-blooded tribesmen, while their chief, Colonel A. B. Welch, had been inducted into the Sioux nation.

The climaitic event of the day will be the Mardi Gras at 9 p. m with the crowning of a Mardi Gras queen.

Mine Union Officials Confer with Cabinet Officials on Coal Difficulties.

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, July 13—Officials of the United Mine Workers of America, headed by President John L. Lewis, were here today conferring with secretary of Labor Doak and Secretary of Commerce Lamont, in an endeavor to find some solution for the many difficulties confronting the bituminous coal industry.

The operators, meeting last week with Doak and Lamont, were unable to agree upon any specific plan and President Hoover called the miners officials here.

The operators said they believed little could be accomplished at a conference participated in by operators and labor officials.

Officials of the labor department have long held that one of the chief difficulties of the industry is overdevelopment.

"Too many mines and too many miners," they asserted, is causing the present troubles.

"CLUTCHING HAND" SLAYING AVENGED

By International News Service

NEW YORK, July 13—Vengeance for the murder of "the clutching hand" reached out of the darkness in Brooklyn early today, and when police arrived they found Vervo Pisano, gangster and racketeer, dying in the street.

He had been shot just under the heart. He died 15 minutes later in Long Island college hospital.

Known as "The Little Goat," and not to be confused with "Little Augie," Brooklyn gang leader who also sometimes used the name "Pisano," Vervo Pisano, police said, generally was accredited in underworld circles with the murder of Giuseppe Piriano, "the clutching hand," who was put on the spot in Brooklyn a year and a half ago.

He also, police said, was suspected of the murder of Carmine Piriano, "the clutching hand's" son, who shared his father's fate a short time after his father went to his death.

LIVE ON OVERFLOW, REV. GRADWOHL SAYS

Prospect Minister Addresses Union Church Services Here Sunday.

Taking as his text, John 10:10, "I came that they may have life; and have it more abundantly," Rev E. A. Gradwohl of the Prospect Reformed church, preached at the union service last night at the Central Christian church.

His subject was "Living Out of the Overflow," and he stressed the necessity of living off the overflow, or surplus, but not out of the reserve, in order to survive during times of stress. He also remarked that children live out of the overflow as they have an abundance of life, energy and strength, physically and spiritually because the love of Jesus overflows in their happiness.

Continuing, he said:

"Adults to be in His kingdom should live out of the overflow of life. Business keeps going by living out of the overflow of profits. Banks keep going by living out of the overflow. Physically we must live out of the overflow. Living off the reserve is the sign of failing health.

"What is true physically is true spiritually. Years should be giving us a certain reserve. There should be a constant building up of spiritual strength. The way to live out of the overflow is to surrender to Jesus Christ. Cast yourself into the living stream until you vibrate His joy. Be steady in your devotions. Be regular at church. Read what the church is doing. Have the steady stream of the love of Jesus Christ flowing through you. Then you will live out of the overflow."

Goldschmidt Likely to Lose Entire Fortune

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, July 13—The collapse of the Darmstaedter und National bank threw into prominence today the name of Jacob Goldschmidt, its managing director and long considered one of the financial geniuses of Germany.

At the age of 49 Goldschmidt was not only regarded as being chiefly responsible for the hitherto high standing of the bank but as one of the ablest captains of industry. He was on the executive boards of more industrial concerns than any other German—99 in all. These included the Hamburg American line, the Steel trust, General Electric, Lufthansa and various insurance and mining companies.

As the second son of a Hanoverian merchant, he rose from the humblest beginnings to eminence. Because he was one of seven children he couldn't study law as he wished, but had to earn his living as a beginner in the H. Oppenheimer bank in Hanover.

In 1907 he came to Berlin where his rise to influence was meteoric. Successfully reorganizing the national bank, he soon effected a fusion which the Darmstaedtet bank. This institution soon forged to the head of all German moster banks. Through his efforts various industrial concerns which almost went bankrupt through post-war inflation were saved from ruin.

Under German law for companies such as the Danat bank, the gesellschafter—proprietor or partner—is personally liable for losses. This means that Goldschmidt's huge private fortune probably will be confiscated. It includes one of the finest collections of ancient oriental art in private hands anywhere, a costly collection of paintings and a beautiful castle with a large estate near Potsdam.

The late Gustav Stresemann, former foreign minister, was one of his closest friends but it wasn't politics that drew them together—it was Goethe and the theater.

Prison Camps Source of Worry for Officials

Overcrowding of Former World War Barracks Necessitated While New Federal Prisons Are Under Construction.

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, July 13—Overcrowding of federal prison camps, established to relieve the load on already congested federal prisons, has brought new worries to the department of justice.

Officials today admitted conditions at Chillicothe, O., criticised severely by the Wickersham law enforcement commission, obtained to some decree in other places where temporary barracks are maintained.

With the advent of prohibition and increase in other crimes the population of federal prisons rose steadily for years, and finally congress approved a $7,000,000 expansion program. Even this program, it was admitted, would not solve the situation.

To provide relief while new prisons are being built, the prisons including Camp Lee, Va., Camp Bragg, N. C., Camp Meade, Md., and Camp Wadsworth, Ky.

Capacity Doubled

Prisoners are housed in barracks used by soldiers during the World war. Because of the overcrowding of prisons, however, the justice department has been forced to double the capacity of some barracks. In some barracks 48 men are housed as compared to 24 during the World war.

The increase in capacity is accomplished by double-decking bunks. In its report on the child offender, issued last week, the Wickersham commission condemned old army barracks at Chillicothe, saying they are in poor repairs, crowded, unsanitary and not fireproof.

"Some bunks are double-decked, there are no chairs in the dormitories men must sit or lie on their beds at all times while in barracks," said the report.

The criticism of the commission, together with exposure of the payment of large sums of money by penitentiary prisoners seeking transfers to camp, has thrown them into the limelight, with the result that the justice department is fearful of more criticism

Admitting the situation is unsatisfactory but defending the camps a justice department official said:

"Most of the buildings in prison camps are temporary. They are wooden structures, some of the type the Wickersham commission condemned.

"There have been no epidemics and the health record is good. This is largely due to the rigid physical inspection and the fine medical branch of the prison division.

"Men sent to the camps are required to labor eight hours a day, grading roads and doing similar manual work. They are not allowed outside the camp, which is composed of abandoned enlisted men's quarters, at any time."

The department of justice has under construction the Northeast penitentiary, a Southwest reformatory and another institution in Missouri said in all of his fire experience, he had never witnessed an explosion and fire quite like this morning's blaze. So terrific was the explosion that in addition to blowing out the north side of the house, doors and windows and window blinds were blown across the street.

The chief said fires seldom follow explosions from the ordinary causes. An explosion from gas, while destructive, is seldom followed by fire, and if fire does follow, it is usually slow burning, he said. The entire house, however, was aflame within a few seconds after the explosion this morning.

One witness told Chief McFarland that he was a block away at the time of the explosion and when he reached the house flames were pouring from the windows on the first floor and in a few seconds the fire had spread to the second floor.

ANALYZE CHEMICALS IN MURDER INQUIRY

Authorities May Exhume Body of Victim In Stryker Slaying Case

By The Associated Press

BRYAN, O., July 13—Analysis was being made at Columbus today of the chemical found in the attic of Theodore Taylor's home at Stryker, so authorities may decide whether to exhume the body of his grandmother, Mrs. Abbie Douglas, 85, whom Taylor is accused of slaying.

If a poison is found among the chemicals, which were used by Taylor's deceased brother in mounting birds and animals, authorities will determine whether her body contains the same chemicals.

Taylor was in the county jail on a charge of first degree murder. He had changed his plea to not guilty after authorities alleged he had confessed he put poison in her coffee "because she wanted to die."

Mrs. Douglas was buried Wednesday. The analysis of the chemicals was requested by Coroner C. B Bly.

FALL PREPARED TO BEGIN PRISON TERM

By The Associated Press

EL PASO, Tex., July 13—Albert B. Fall was resigned today to the prospect of serving a prison term on conviction of accepting a bribe while he was secretary of the interior.

Ending a long fight based on the assertion Fall's' health would break in confinement, a member of his family announced yesterday that the former cabinet officer had agreed to the addition of a day to his one-year sentence in order that the time might be served outside the District of Columbia.

He expressed a desire to enter the penitentiary of New Mexico, his home state. That plea was contained in a message from Dr. J. H. Gambrell, his private physician, to Frank Hogan, Fall's Washington counsel.

Dr. Gambrell said the climate of Washington would affect adversely the health of the former secretary, who was convicted of accepting $100,000 from E. L. Doheny for leasing of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve.

Fall came to the El Paso home of his wife several weeks ago from his Three-Rivers, N. M., ranch for physical examinations following refusal of the supreme court to review his conviction; his physician said service of the sentence in an eastern prison would result in his early death.

Members of Fall's family said his side of the case had never been told, and that when the public learned the facts it would recognize him as "the most unjustly treated man in history."

Rudy made the announcement at this time, he said, to forestall any report next fall, when Mrs. Vallee boards the train for the coast, that their romance is blasted. The bride herself denied that she would reenter the movies.

200 Cincinnati Shriners Visit Harding Memorial

Pay Tribute to Memory of Former President in Eulogy at Tomb; Band Leads Procession from Masonic Temple to Memorial.

A tribute to the loyalty, kindliness and powers of perception of President Warren G. Harding, was paid by Frederick L. Hoffman of Cincinnati at the tomb of the former president yesterday afternoon. The occasion was the visit of nearly 200 members of Syrian Temple, Order of the Mystic Shrine, of Cincinnati, who stopped in this city yesterday enroute to the national shrine convention in Cleveland this week.

The shriners arrived in this city in a special train over the Big Four railroad shortly before 3 p. m. They were met at the union station by members of the Marion Shrine club and escorted in automobiles to the Masonic temple. Later the visitors headed by the Syrian Temple band and representatives of the local order, marched to the memorial where a wreath was placed at the tomb by Mr. Hoffman as imperial potentate of the Cincinnati order.

At the close of the program, the visitors were taken on a tour of the city including a visit to the Harding museum.

The speaker who was introduced by Jerome M. Jackson of Cincinnati, following two selections by the band and a short prayer by Charles H. Meede, past imperial potentate of the Syrian temple, declared that to know President Harding was to love him.

"I came to know President Harding well near the close of the war, and I am glad because it gave me the opportunity to know him as he was—kind, generous and even careful to avoid, either by word or deed, to hurt a fellow being. These are the characteristics," the speaker declared, "that has enshrined Warren Harding in the hearts of his countrymen."

Following the placing of the wreath by the speaker, the program closed with the band playing "Nearer My God to Thee" and benediction by Mr. Meede.

The speaker and the visitors were generous in their expressions of appreciation to both the city and the members of the local shrine for the invitation to visit the memorial and for the courtesy shown them during their stay here. The visit of the Cincinnati lodge was the result of invitations sent to various shrines throughout the United States by Marion civic organizations several weeks ago.

Automobiles used to convey the visiting delegation from the depot to the Masonic temple, where the parade was formed, were arranged for by the Marion Auto Club.

How to End Painful Piles Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, almost dead. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause—that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's prescription, HEM-ROID, succeeds because it removes congestion, restores circulation, heals and strengthens the diseased parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of quickly ending even piles of long standing, that Henney & Cooper says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile agony or money back.—Adv.

FARM FEED AT 30-YEAR LOW

Purchase Prices for Ohio Only About Half of 1930 Figures.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 13—Ohio farmers can now purchase feeds at the lowest prices in 30 years, according to Carl J. West, research director of the Ohio Farm bureau. Present feed prices, he said, are hardly more than half of last year's levels at the first of July, and bran, selling at $13 a ton and lower, wholesale, should be correspondingly low at retail.

West continued "these low prices for feeds are largely a result of low prices for wheat and corn. The levels for milk, egg, and livestock prices are so low that farmers could not purchase feeds at much higher prices.

"Bran has not sold so low at Chicago, wholesale, for 30 years and longer. The Minneapolis price for standard bran is reported at $11 a ton. Freight and retail charges must be added to the wholesale price in order to obtain the selling price to the farmer.

Freight Costs Higher

"Since freight charges have about doubled during recent years, farmers are not receiving the full benefit of these extremely low wholesale prices at the point of shipment. And worse yet, farmers are paying the higher freight charges on their milk, wheat, and other products.

"Middlings, another feed made from wheat, are on a basis at Chicago of around $14, and $11.75 a ton at Minneapolis. These middlings prices compare with $24 at Chicago a year ago.

"Cottonseed meal is the great protein feed used by dairymen in Ohio and is, in fact, the price base for all protein feeds. This is quoted at around $27 a ton at Chicago, as compared with $42.50 a year ago. Linseed meal prices, wholesale at Chicago, are around $25, as against $45 last July. Soybean meal is quoted at $26, and the low price for this feed is having an effect in holding down prices for the other protein feeds.

"Alfalfa meal is on a $22 basis against $25 a year ago. This year's prices are high as compared with other feeds because alfalfa meal is used by farmers as a roughage as well as a protein concentrate. Hay was so short a crop last year that the demands for alfalfa were heavy and the supply was well taken up. Besides, the alfalfa price is very largely a matter of freight, since much of the Ohio supply comes from points west of the Mississippi river. Hence, demands do not have so great an influence on the price as for other feeds.

Byproducts Lower

"Gluten and hominy feeds, which are byproducts from the corn starch factories, are low in price, though there is not so great a difference in comparison with last year as for some other feeds. With corn available at present prices, there is no great demand for these corn products.

"Tankage is down from $70 and $80 a ton to around $40. This protein feed of animal origin is lower, of course, because of the influence of prices of the other concentrates which can be largely substituted for this feed."

ASKS DISMISSAL OF CO-OP MILK CASE

Receiver Wants Marion County Man's Petition Dismissed.

Dismissal of a petition filed in federal court at Cleveland by W. A. Spencer of Claridon, a creditor of the Ohio Farmers' Cooperative Milk association, is sought in an answer filed Saturday by Charles A. Smith, receiver for the association, according to an International News Service report today.

Certificates of indebtedness given farmer-members of the association for delivered milk products, on which Spencer sought to collect $840,000 for himself and other members of the association, are not payable at this time but may be extended one year, according to the answer. Provision for this extension of time was made by the directors of the association before it went into receivership, Smith maintains.

Spencer's action, claimed to be filed in behalf of a number of farmer-members "to prevent them from losing approximately $840,000," asked that the receivership judgment on the federal farm board's $400,000 loan to the cooperative be set aside because the loan was illegal. In default of immediate payment of the certificates, Spencer's suit asked for a court sale.

In the association's answer, it was contended that the farm board's loan was legal and that the Ohio Farmer's Milk Service, incorporated, a subsidiary, was organized with authority of the cooperative members. Organization of the subsidiary also was attacked in Spencer's suit.

The answer further stated that the certificates, under original terms of their issuance, are subordinate to all other debts and would be the last to be paid in event of a liquidation.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, July 14.

A DELIGHTFUL and interesting day is forecast from the predominant position of the gracious Venus conjoined by Luna, this configuration accelerating social, domestic artistic and romantic activities and interests. These should happily hold the attention, although there is sign of stabilizing the possessions, and favors from old persons or institutions. However, be on guard against some physical accident.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a very happy and pleasant year with the private interests uppermost. Domestic, social, artistic and affectional activities may engage the attention, although the real possessions or property may have some angles of development. Protect the physical against mishap. A child born on this day should be socially and culturally talented and gracious, although it may also have solid qualities for a successful, prosperious and happy life, with great popularity and prestige.

STOLE HEART AS WELL AS BASES

PLAN STATE FARM GROUP

Ohio Cooperative Officials Will Assemble in Columbus July 16.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., July 13—Important steps to help the Ohio farmer make his dream of economic equality come true will be taken here July 16, when farm cooperative officials from all parts of the state assemble to consider forming a state cooperative council.

By embining their strength and directing it by one leader—the state cooperative council—farm spokesmen declare their wishes would get far more attention than they now receive, and that their opinions in general would carry more weight.

Although there are numerous cooperatives in operation now, their work is not as effective as it could be, the leaders lament, because no central authority guides their activities.

While they admit the plea is familiar and that it has a ring known to all who are almost unceasingly being begged to cooperate, the leaders see in a central cooperative council the cure for their ills.

Once organized, such a council could rightfully claim to speak for 75 per cent of Ohio's 220,000 farmers whose buying power mount to a tremendous total.

Back of the movement are two leaders in the cooperation movement, the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation and the Ohio State Grange, as well as the Central Dairy Products council and the Ohio Livestock Cooperative association. They called the meeting.

Eager to assist, it is said are the Ohio State Vegetable Growers association, the Ohio Wool Growers Coperative association, the Ohio Farmers' Grain and Supply association, and the Ohio Equity Union.

Although leaders have not said so, observers here believe the movement is an outcome of the recent legislative session, when, it was understood, the rural group was not satisfied with the action of the assembly. Politicians would submit to farm requests with less difficulty if a frank statement of farmers strength could accompany each demand, it was pointed out.

Legislation is admittedly one of the common interests various cooperatives, spsay. Education is another bined, they could better as their mutual problems, the. The meeting will be held State university.

Army of Insects Makes Annual Invasion of Great Lakes Area

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, O., July 13—With utter disregard for immigration laws and flaunting the disciples of birth control, the invading army of the ephmeredae clan, 100,000,000 and then some strong, is engaged in its annual summer war with the bright lights at Lake Erie points.

These mosquito-like creatures, which cause endless worry to shopkeepers and residents when they tire of flying and sit and die on window panes, are raiding the lake communities in swarming hordes, eager for the fling that lasts but one single night.

Known to science as ephmeredae, the laymen has tacked at least three nicknames on these unusual insects—May Fly and Canadian or Yankee Soldier,—the latter appellation depending on which side of the great lakes they live. The sophisticated name, pronounced E-fe-mer-e-di, with the accent on the "mer" is derived from Ephemereds, Greek mythological creatures which lived only one day.

Oversized Mosquitos

Very delicate creatures, the ephemeredae in maturity are greatly similar to a mosquito except they are several times larger. They have four wings, two long ones in front and a pair of very small ones just behind. Three long antennae protrude nearly two inches from the rear of a long, soft abdomen.

A small mouthless head with two pin-point eyes can be seen at the other end of the abdomen. In maturity the ephmeredae do not eat, partly accounting for their short lives. Their mouths become completely atrophied during numerous moltings in earlier stages of their lives.

Then cannot carry germs and are otherwise completely harmless. Probably the only way in which they constitute a real nuisance is that they squash easily when they strike a hard object and in this way litter up any spot they happen to haunt.

Although their one object in life is to reproduce, a great majority of the ephemeredae never fulfill that object. The reason is principally because they, like humans, have a strong desire to explore the "great white way."

Upon gaining his maturity, at night the "May Fly" sets out on his initial flight. Frequently aided by a seductive wind, great swarms of these insects just grown up are swept in from the lakes to some lake city where they will convene at each bright light until all have dashed themselves to death in their frenzy.

New Ohio Jury Service Law Effective Aug. 3

"Contributing" and Active Members of National Guard To Be No Longer Exempt from Service; Changes in Fishing Laws Also on List.

COLUMBUS, O., July 13—The man who has escaped jury service in Ohio by paying $5 annually to the chosen unit of the state militia or national guard will have to serve along with others in the common pleas courts after Aug. 3. On that date Ohio's new jury law, passed by the recent legislature will go into effect, automatically ending the present law which exempts from jury service all active members of the national guard who pay five dollars annually. Members of the reserve corps, exempt, also will have to serve at jury service if they volunteer for that purpose; likewise members of volunteer fire departments.

Under the law many business men obtained exemption from jury duty by joining as "contributing" members. The guard is indefinite as no roster is compiled covering the entire state, the exemptions being handled in the various counties. It, however, the full quota of such exemptions was in effect, there would be 22,200 of them, as there are 148 military organizations and each organization is entitled to 150 contributing members.

Some Have Full Quota

At the adjutant general's office it was stated that some of the organizations probably have their full quota of "contributing" members, while others do not have any. Most of them however, it was said, had some contributing members.

The new jury law completely revamps the present code, making many administrative changes in the manner of appointment of the jury commission and the compiling of jury lists and the summoning of jurors. Disability is ground for exemption from jury service and the court may excuse from service for other causes deemed justifiable. The new code makes no other changes in present exemptions than those noted.

Among other laws becoming effective the latter part of July and the first part of August are the following:

Effective July 24—Prohibiting the use of fish nets and traps within one mile of the Ohio river; prohibiting the sale of colored oleomargarine; allowing dealers to return stale bread to the bakery; providing for periodic tubercular cattle tests in approved areas; appropriating funds to liquidate claims for adjusted compensation for World war veterans.

New Health Board Rule

Effective July 28—Authorizing general and city health districts to unite; repealing the present statute of frauds; requiring a written memorandum before a real estate agent can collect commissions for selling real estate; providing penalties for the use of slugs in telephone pay stations; strengthening the aeronautics code; and increasing the salary of the director of aeronautics.

Effective July 30—Giving state employes two weeks' absence with pay to attend citizens' military camps.

Effective Aug. 1—Authorizing the use of gill nets anywhere in the Ohio waters of Lake Erie; requiring non-resident pole fishermen to obtain fishing licenses; authorizing the highway director to cooperate in the building of roads to state parks; and transferring the cost of cutting weeds along state and county highways from townships to the counties.

Effective Aug. 4—Authorizing Cuyahoga county commissioners to set up a $10,000 trust for Elen Hunt of Cleveland to compensate her for alleged unjustifiable commitment to an insane asylum many years ago. Miss Hunt is to receive the interest on the trust fund annually.

Effective Aug. 6—Abandoning by the state for canal purposes all of the Miami and Erie canal between Toledo and Middletown in furtherance of the projected super-highway between Cincinnati and Toledo; transferring the state serum plant from Reynoldsburg to the state agricultural experiment station at Wooster; providing for the licensing of architects; and creating the position of chief of the bureau of bridges in the state highway department.

Effective Aug. 10—Prohibiting the use of automatic vending machines in the sale of gasoline or other inflammable or explosive liquids.

SUNDAY SHOW FIGHT GOES ON

Ministerial Groups In Several Ohio Cities Seek Prohibitory Ordinances.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., July 13—With the bill legalizing Sunday movies scheduled to become effective Aug. 3, ministerial associations in several Ohio cities are at work attempting to force the enactment of city ordinances banning Sunday theatricals.

In nearly every city, theater owners are learning that their battle for the right to operate on Sunday did not end with the passing of the Ackerman bill, and the affixing of Governor George White's signature.

At East Liverpool, 1,500 signatures have been obtained for a petition calling for a vote at the Nov. 3 election on an initiated ordinance prohibiting Sunday shows.

Only 650 signatures, representing 10 per cent of the voters, are required. The petitions were circulated in East Liverpool churches.

Ministers at Martins Ferry, where Sunday shows have long been banned, declare they do not oppose a referendum on the proposition of allowing Sunday shows, but demand that the burden for such a vote fall on the advocates of Sunday theatricals.

An ordinance amending the Martins Ferry anti-Sunday movie law, making it conform to the new state law, has been proposed to the Martins Ferry council, but so far the council has not decided what to do. Ministers have been asked that, if it be passed, it be declared effective only if it is approved by a vote of the people.

Another city facing a fight on the question is Steubenville. Cities along the Ohio river are particularly anxious to take advantage of the new state law, because, they say, much money that goes to West Virginia movie operators might be kept in Ohio.

Several college towns, including Delaware, Alliance and Wooster, see controversies threatening. Delaware residents made a strong fight to obtain passage of the bill when it was before the state legislature, complaining that their city was almost vacated on Sundays by persons coming to Columbus theaters.

Under provisions of the new law, Sunday afternoon movies are declared legal unless local governments pass legislation banning such shows.

The bill places Sunday movies in the same status as Sunday baseball.

Two wealthy women were followed to their rooms in a leading Chicago hotel by two men, one day last week, and robbed. Such incidents can hardly pass as good advertisements for the coming "Exposition of Progress."

New York City's police authorities claim that the rum criminal is crowding the pickpocket out of business. Why particularize? Isn't he putting the kibosh on just about every line of business?

Two bulls remained passive while a band played at a picnic down near Parkton, Maryland, until it tried jazz; then they became infuriated and charged the band. Our esteem for the intelligence of bulls is picking up.

"Hoover Aspires To Guide World into Disarming; Seeks Leadership in Movement"—Headline. An ambition to lead the world into disarming is a laudable one, but may it not be possible that he seeks to serve humanity rather than himself—as the second half of the head might be taken to imply?

Four gangsters who shot and killed a bank cashier during the course of a hold-up of a New York garage have been sentenced to the electric chair. There is always the exception. At times 100 per cent. justice is administered, as in this case.

By docking all city employes fourteen days' pay, Chicago hopes to trim its pay roll $2,400,000 by the end of the year. That may be one way of getting out of a municipal financial hole, but people can not buy with the money they do not get, and that means putting business in a financial hole.

The superior court in Pittsburgh has held that a golfer must accept the risk of all the ordinary dangers incident to the game, and can not recover for injuries sustained as the result of being hit by a ball driven by another player. Aha! Another hazard!

According to the insurance paper, "Spectator," the tuberculosis death rate in the fifty-nine leading cities of the United States declined from 174.4 to the 100,000 in 1910 to 108.5 in 1920 and 66.5 in 1930, a new low mark, and Chicago's record of 65.1 was the lowest among the big cities of the world. It's a great showing for science, but the explanation in Chicago's case may be that the gangsters kill people off before they succumb to the dread plague.

Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Ecuador, San Salvador and Uruguay—all of them Latin-American republics—are the only nations invited to accede to the Kellogg-Briand pact for the renunciation of war which have not done so. Messrs. Kellogg and Briand overlooked a bet. Had they added a clause excepting revolutions they might have rescued unanimous world indorsement of their treaty.

News from Washington.

Newspaper readers take the completeness and accuracy of news for granted, which is what newspapers expect them to do. Difficulties of collection and preparation should not be revealed in news stories. They are strictly newspaper problems.

It is pleasant to acknowledge cooperation, however. An occasion is presented in the work of William R. Castle, Jr., during the course of the moratorium negotiations. As under secretary of state, the heavy responsibility of conducting the state department in the absence of Secretary Stimson, has rested on Mr. Castle's shoulders for the last two weeks—a trying period. And he has distinguished himself, adding to an already excellent reputation for capability.

One of the important functions of the state department when negotiations of such intense importance are pending is to present them to the public frankly and clearly. It is on the performance of this particular function that newspaper men assigned to Washington by their papers and news services are taking occasion to praise Mr. Castle. Unlike Secretary Stimson, who has the reputation of confusing with enigmatic statements the men who keep the public informed, Under Secretary Castle has expedited the service of the public press with clean-cut, cheerfully-given explanations covering every aspect of the moratorium.

Newspapers, in turn, have been enabled to present the subject to their readers more plainly, thus enlisting public support for the administration's program. This is not always the case with important stories of interest to the people. Some officials in Washington, as in every governmental center, are inept at making their conduct of public business appear in a light that keps the public interested and accurately informed. Newspapers regret this inability; they welcome a man like Under Secretary Castle, who realizes fully that what is Cunard Optimism and Courage.

Following a year of depression during which all ship lines suffered heavy losses of business, and half way through a summer season—ordinarily the harvest time of transatlantic shipping—which gives even less promise of return than that of last year, the optimism and courage of the Cunard people is refreshing.

With ocean passenger travel so comparatively light that most lines are considering both the reducing of their sailing dates to cut expenses and their rates to encourage travel; with several great lines postponing contemplated construction until the outlook for ocean business is more auspicious, the Cunard company is not only going ahead with the construction of its as yet nameless No. 534, which is to cost $30,000,000, but is also arranging for the construction of a sister ship to follow it, that with the two a fast weekly service may be maintained between New York, Cherbourg and Southampton.

Heretofore little has been known concerning No. 534 other than that it was to be the largest liner afloat, having a tonnage of approximately 73,000, which would make her about twenty-five per cent larger than any liner in service. Last week, however, the Cunard people gave out a number of details disclosing many new features of construction and equipment. She has a length of 1,018 feet and a beam of 115 feet, which means that she will be 110 feet and six inches longer and fourteen feet and nine inches wider than the Leviathan, of the United States Lines, Inc. Thirty thousand tons of steel will enter into her construction. Her engines will generate 200,000 horsepower and she will be driven by twelve turbines. She will have seven turbo generators and 300 electric motors. The electric power station to be installed will produce enough current to light a city of 100,000 population, and a $1,000,000 gyroscope weighing 600,000 pounds will hold her on an even keel in the roughest weather. A row of fourteen motor lifeboats will line each side of her boat deck. Three great stacks will carry off the smoke from her high-pressure water tube boilers and the mouths of her ventilators will be larger than a street car. Her bows are a new development of the bulbous pattern which will not only facilitate the making of her anticipated speed of thirty-five knots an hour and add greatly to her steadiness, but also, throwing the seas aside, will keep her decks dry at top speed.

Equipped to accommodate 5,000 passengers, the new liner's catering department will have 200,000 pieces of crockery and 100,000 pieces of tableware such as knives, forks and spoons. There will be 10,000 electric fittings on the vessel, ten miles of carpet will cover its floors and the decorations will cost $2,500,000. The stern frame, already made, weighs 100 tons, and is the world's largest casting.

Reference has been made to the optimism and courage of the Cunard management. Its optimism is manifest in its evident belief that the recession in ocean travel is but temporary and will soon pass. Its courage, however, is made evident by the immense size of the vessel it is constructing. Experience has demonstrated that the public is won by size and speed. The No. 534 will meet both these demands, but isn't it possible that the Cunard line is going too far in its present construction? Is it not possible that this vessel and the sister ship to follow it will be too big and too highly powered to be operated profitably. The Leviathan and the Majestic, and the Berengaria in a lesser degree, experience difficulty at times in navigating New York harbor and the Solent. A 1,000-foot liner will necessarily be forced to face a still greater handicap in navigating those waters.

Dr. Miguel C. Tocornal, Chilean jurist and statesman, expresses the opinion that there is no danger in the Monroe doctrine to Latin America. "I believe, on the contrary," he announced to a gathering in Mexico City, "that it is favorable to the political and economic interests and the culture of Latin America. I consider also that the Latin American countries should adopt it instead of refusing to do so." Were more Latin American leaders able to see through the clear glasses of Judge Tocornal, the western hemisphere would be impregnable to attack.

Among the names considered for a new destroyer is that of Admiral Dewey. Rather an illustrious name for a dinky little warship!

William R. Eba, of Los Angeles, has retained an attorney to establish the fact that he is alive. In August, 1916, the government informed his mother that he had been killed in action at Chateau Thierry. Later word was sent her that he had perished in the St. Mihiel drive. A short time since, when he applied for a loan, he received a letter notifying him the veteran of that name had died in San Antonio, Texas. Anyway, he is estopped from claiming that the government hasn't been active in an endeavor to dispose of him.

A Good Public Servant Gone.

The community lost a good man, a good citizen and a good public servant when John M. Schneider succumber to a heart attack.

Too often, far too often, public servants are inclined to think first of their own interests, secondly of party interests and lastly of the interests of the public. John Schneider was a welcome relief from this trend. He was not without personal feeling, not without partisan feeling, but when the test came he would usually be found championing that which he believed to be for the best interests of the community as a whole and opposing that which he believed would be detrimental to the best interests of the city. It was this appreciation of the public interest which made him unusually valuable as a member of council; it was recognition of this by his constituency which enable him at times to oppose measures championed by fellow-members of his party in council or champion measures of the opposition without alienating the good will of those he opposed, for they recognized his sincerity and honesty of purpose.

It is a matter for deep regret that in places of political preferment, high as well as positions of lesser degree, there are not more

DEBT TAKES A VACATION.

Editorial Opinion.

"AUTOMOBILITY."

This word has not yet a place in the dictionaries. But even the word "automobile" does not appear in the New English dictionary, begun in 1888 and completed in 1928. An "aeroplane" is there defined as "a plane placed in the air for aerostatical experiment," to be attached to a dynamometer for purposes of measurement. With upward of 35,000,000 self-propelling vehicles in the world, future dictionaries will surely include some such word as automobility to define the condition in which perhaps half the people of the civilized countries of the earth find themselves nearly every day in the year. At the rate of increase since the beginning of the century, in another period such as that taken by the lexicographers to gather and define the words in the English language from A to Z the vision of Ezekiel will be seen everywhere in the earth: "And where the living creatures went, the wheels went beside them."

Even at present, the entire population of the United States could be accommodated in our 26,697,398 automotive vehicles—one car for every 4.9 persons. At the other end of the list is the Yemen, along whose coasts the Queen of Sheba must have passed in her camel train on her way to look upon the glory of Solomon, with his 1,400 chariots. But Ibn Saud, a little to the north in the Nejd, has recently purchased motor cars for his journeys around his enlarged domain, and no doubt the Yemen and Oman, on the other side of the Arabian desert, will soon cease to be at the bottom of the motor list along with China, Ethiopia, the Solomon islands and spitsbergen.

The theory has been proposed that civilization is measured by the degree of a people's automobility. As the vegetable sought to get free of its roots and approach, if not enter, another kingdom, man has endeavored to get free of his feet, to attain a higher and higher state of mobility—even equipping his wheels with wings. So has man dreamed for himself that with which he has endowed his gods and his angels.

Only one memory of the race rises to disturb this otherwise satisfying theory. Ixion was, for punishment, tied to a wheel that ceaselessly revolved, save once when Orpheus sang his grief.—New York Times.

THE PERFECT CHILD, IF ANY.

Parents were warned at the Los Angeles convention of the National Education association against inattention to that most dangerous of symptoms in child behavior—namely, perfection. The perfect child, expert pedagogues say, is abnormal. Absolutely impeccable behavior points to apathy, lack of curiosity, excessive submissiveness and undue timidity.

Apart from the fact that perfect children are too rare to cause society much concern, it is to be noted that the warning against unexceptional child behavior is based on a rather bizarre definition of misbehavior. Day dreaming, restlessness, whispering in school and lapses of attention are named as instances of ill-conduct. But surely children guilty of nothing more serious than the sins here mentioned would be considered by most persons of intelligence to be well-nigh perfect.

The good die first, said Wordsworth, and other poets have expressed the same idea. Sensible parents neither expect nor desire their children to be preternaturally good. And few parents see in their children's high spirits, independence, eagerness for knowledge and love of change disturbing signs of rebellion or perversity.—Chicago News.

Household Pests a Menace.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A story is told of a man who asked his druggist to sell him 10,000 roaches, and a general assortment of other insect pests. He explained that he was about to move from the apartment in which he had lived for several years, and that his lease demanded he leave his apartment in the same condition he had received it!

The roach is the most common and most offensive of the insects seen in present day habitations. There are no less than a thousand different types of this unwelcome pest. They are unpleasant and really dangerous neighbors. For many years they have been suspected of carrying various infections. As yet no definite proof of their part in conveying disease has been proved.

Roaches do most of their wanderings at night. They soil everything they touch.

In our modern apartment-houses they are a great nuisance. They travel from one apartment to another, following along water and drain pipes. In buildings of moderate height they may travel from cellar to roof.

Cleanliness and keeping the food in jars and places that can not be reached by roaches is important in exterminating them. All cracks and imperfections in building that may serve as breeding places should be eliminated.

The best poison for the roach is sodium fluoride, finely ground and mixed with meal. This should be liberally dusted in all corners, drawers, closets, crevices and runways. This powder is poisonous and should be carefully labeled as such and kept away from children.

Roaches must be considered as a menace to our health. In their migration from one apartment to another they feed upon breadstuffs, milk, clothing, cooked and raw food, and travel from sickroom to baby's room or to the family kitchen. They infest kitchens, storerooms and toilets, and undoubtedly aid in spreading filth and germs.

I believe too little attention is paid to these carriers of filth. Undoubtedly they play a part in health and disease and should be considered a menace just as other disease-bearing insects.

He Says Ile de France.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

At Sea, July 12—Through a cabin porthole the cyclorama of lights that is New York's night skyline is fading. The great liner is shivering into the first ocean swells and there isn't anything I would not give to be back in my apartment. In nineteen crossings I invariably have this reaction.

My travel thrills are entirely anticipatory. In the actual progress of journey I'm always wondering why I came. Yet by tomorrow I'll likely be planning a jaunt to Hawaii this winter. This trip might be an uncomfortable one had I been negligent in a matter of tipping several years ago.

In disembarking from the liner, Paris, I forgot the customary pourbois for Tatibouet, a steward who had served me well. The next day I sent a fair fee along with an extra gratuity for my carelessness by special messenger. Tonight I found Tatibouet had been transferred to the Ile de France.

And among the cabins he attends is 296A, which we occupy. Imagine a rough crossing with a steward one had not tipped! I saw our take-off from New York tonight through the eager and excited eyes of Ray Long, Jr., aged seven, who accompanied by his mother is making his first voyage.

He is to summer in the south of France, where by fall he will be speaking French like a native as children do while we grown-ups struggle for years to make the name of our Paris hotels understandable to taxi drivers. Our cabin before leave-taking became somewhat a miniature hall of notables.

Many had come to bid bon voyage to others, but dropped in en passant. Among them were Roy and Peg Howard, Leon Gordon, Vincent Lopez, Frank Mason, Clara Bell Walsh, and, of course, the ubiquitous ship scribe, Harry Acton. I never leave a cabin until a boat sails due to a horrible phobia I'll rush off it.

Billy, the Boston, is a fellow-voyager and a complacent one. Already he is under a bed with his head between his paws sound asleep. Without checking up I should say it is his seventh trip. If outward appearances are indicative, a sea voyage means nothing in his life. Just a long sleep.

Rainbow, the Sealyham, was to come along, but at the last moment we had misgivings. He is a puppy, sensitive and easily frightened. Among the books I hope to read as we plough merrily along are, "The Moonstone," by Wilkie Collins; "The Caliph of Bagdad," a life of O. Henry, "Flamenco," and for a shudderer, "The Night of Fear," which snatched from a book stall at the pier. Nobody ever traveled with the right amount of reading. There is always too much or too little. With my flair for the unusual I'm hoping my reading will come out just right. Finish the last paragraph of the last book, look up from the deck chair and there is land. Or as we ancient mariners scream, "Land ho!"

Due to customary indecision, I had only five hours between making up my mind to sail and actual sailing time. In the fever of packing I was reminded that I nearly always neglect some important article of shaving. So forewarned, I bought an assortment of shaving creams, lotions, etc. I used similar precautions in other accessories such as two combs, two pocket lighters and the like. My wife calls out from the baggage space just now there is only one little thing I neglected—the key to my traveling bag.

Under a little glass at my bedside is a printed card. "Sonnez. Une fois pour le garcon. Deux fois pour la femme de chambre." And some wag has written underneath it: "And when that doesn't bring them, try screaming."

In strange hotels I always inspect pictures on the wall, hoping that I will not see a print of "The Stag at Bay" or a still life of a bowl of fruit. The art exhibit in this cabin is highly modernistic. Full face it suggests a clump of cacti about to skip a rope, turned upside down it is Charles Hanson Towne about to cry. The title is "El Relax"—which naturally clears up everything. One of the Relax boys.

Silk Stockings in Ohio.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

When Ohio was admitted as a state, knee-breeches, silk stockings, close-fitting coats with ruffles at the wrists and neck, constituted fashionable male attire—finery that would seem to have no place in the rough life to which the pioneers were inured. Even the wealthy were obliged to face the rougher phases of life in the "Wild West" of the day.

The judges of the first supreme court must wear the dress de rigeur at dinners and other social functions given in their honor, as they traveled about the state in the discharge of their duties. The supreme court in that early day held its sessions in the settlements, between which the judges of the court traveled, as every one else had to, on horseback, over poor wagon roads, and often through mere trails cut in the woods. Obviously here was no place for finery in dress.

Samuel Huntington, afterward governor of the state, was a member of the first supreme court, and in a letter written to his wife at his home in Lake county, November 8, 1803, from Chillicothe, he inserted this paragraph:

"My silk stockings; I should be glad if you could conveniently send them; also my cotton gloves, which were forgotten. Do not send them unless by a trusty person coming directly here." A postscript to a letter written by him December 29, following, shows that the articles were sent. It reads: "The stockings and gloves came safe."

And, yet the records of the Ohio legislature at this time show that it was passing many laws to encourage the killing of wolves, panthers and other wild animals dangerous to human life and to live stock property. Judge Huntington was himself attacked by wolves one night while he was enroute between his home at Painesville and Cleveland.

Gunmen Hold Up Bucyrus Council President in Grocery

TRIO ESCAPES IN WAITING CAR

Robbers Cock Guns as Man Hesitates To Hand Over Money.

Special to The Star

[illegible] July 13—Local police [illegible] able to trace three unidentified men who held up and robbed J. J. Carle, president of the city council, near midnight today at his grocery at [illegible] Mansfield street. The bandits made their escape with [illegible] and change in a [illegible] sedan, driving toward Marion.

The [illegible] upon were described by Carle and his wife, who was in the store at the time, as about 25 years of age.

The two men entered the store and ordered Carle to hand over the money. The third remained in the car which was stopped directly in front of the door of the store.

One of the bandits who entered the store was described as tall, slender and dark and wore a dark suit. The other was short and stocky built. Both were poorly dressed. Carle was unable to describe the bandit who remained in the car.

The holdup occurred after the three men had parked near the store for about a half hour waiting for an opportune moment when customers had left the store. While they were parked they pretended to be having a fire, according to neighbors who noticed their movements.

That the bandits meant business was realized by Carle today when he reported that the bandits cocked the hammers on their guns when they got hard over a roll of bills that he had a few minutes before had put in his pocket after cashing a check that day. He was forced to give up the money in his pocket as well as all of the silver that remained in the cash register.

$48,000 ASKED FOR SCHOOLS

Tentative Mt. Gilead Budget Complete; Special Levy To Expire.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, July 13 — With the completion of a tentative budget for the operation of the Mt. Gilead schools, the board of education announces that an estimated total of $48,000 will be required for the year of 1932.

The sum of $24,800 for teachers' salaries is the largest item. Approximately $200 is provided additionally for the payment of substitute teachers. Administration expense is estimated at $3,600 including the salary of the superintendent of the schools. The sum appropriated for teachers' salaries is $1,000 less than the appropriation for the same purpose this year. The amount estimated for textbook expense has been reduced from $1,800 to $1,650.

Transportation of pupils will, it is estimated, cost approximately $2,200 which is the same as this year's appropriation. Operation of the school plant will entail the expenditure of $2,750 in salaries, with an additional $900 for maintenance. The expenditure in bond retirement is estimated at $12,390 for the first six months of the year which is the same as this year. A public hearing will be held on the tentative budget at the high school building Friday, July 24. The three mill levy which has enabled the schools here to function, in spite of a curtailed income from general taxation, expires this fall. The board will ask for a vote on an extension of the levy for the next three years

Benefit Milk Fund Lawn Fete Nets Good Profit for Charity

THE women of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs were jubilant this morning as first reports of the baby milk fund benefit lawn fete Saturday evening, began to come in.

Concessions, the cakes, coffee, home made candies and ice cream netted a total of $87.11. Seventy cakes were furnished the child welfare department in charge of the fete, on which $52.50 was cleared on cakes sold or raffled, or cash contributions given when the cakes were called for. The approximately 10 gallons of coffee cleared $8 and $25.81 was made on the candies. Sale of other items netted $1.80.

Mrs. Frank M. Knapp, department chairman, and Mrs. S. G. Rosenberg, ticket chairman, were meeting at noon today to make a final check on the number of tickets sold and the amount of money made from the sale of tickets. The figures will be given out Tuesday.

As soon as the last tabulation has been made, the federation will send its orders to the local dairies for milk to be sent to families of unemployed where the babies are undernourished.

Mrs. Knapp extended her appreciation to Marion persons this morning for the spirit of cooperation they showed in supporting the lawn fete, and to the merchants and citizens of Marion who made possible the fete at the least possible expense. She also thanked the chairmen who worked with her. Mrs. Rosenberg was appreciative of the work of the Girl Reserves and Junior King's Daughters in selling tickets on the streets.

Nearly 1,000 persons attended the fete, held on the lawns of the Schaffner-Queen home on east Center street from 6 to 11 o'clock. The grounds were filled with persons and the crowd was heaviest about 9 o'clock. Japanese lanterns and colored lights illuminated the grounds, and an orchestra, led by T. R. Evans, director of music in the public schools, furnished music throughout the evening.

THE JOYOUS PASTIME of selling wheat short may be interrupted. President Hoover's recent remarks are taken to indicate that he means to discourage in some way the custom of marking down prices by short selling. The French, long ago, took effective action after a wheat corner that made bread impossibly dear for the poor.

One law did it, saying briefly that any one conspiring to control the cost of bread in France would spend the rest of his life in jail at hard labor.

Board of Trade men say short sellers are necessary to prosperity, which is Wall Street's opinion also. President Hoover may convince them that they are mistaken.

An intresting fact that seems to outweigh several tons of theory is that for wheat grown on French soil the French farmer gets a dollar and a half a bushel, while Kansas farmers get about 30 cents at the farm.

THE INTERSTATE Commerce commission fixes the value of our railroads, not counting working capital, at $21,690,000,000, $3,000,000,000 more than the estimate of 1920. The application for 15 per cent increase in rates will be based on the $21,000,000,000 valuation.

Since railroads are as important to the nation, its industries and farmers, as elevators to a skyscraper building, the railroads have to be kept alive.

Railroad income in the first five months of 1931 dropped to $188,000,000-odd, from $308,000,000 in the same months of 1930.

The number of railroad employes have been reduced by one-fourth since 1920, and railroad passenger travel is steadily diminishing, thanks to the nation's 25,000,000 automobiles.

Something must be done about and for the railroads. We as well as Germany, have our problems

Island To Be Orphaned by U. S. Is One of Sea's Lonliest Spots

By International News Service

WASHINGTON — President Hoover's announcement that the smallest of the United States' possessions, the island of Guam, is to be abandoned for the sake of economy, prompted the National Geographic Society to recall some characteristics of that lonely outpost in mid-Pacific.

Several years ago it was considered a strategic naval base for Uncle Sam, but now is only a relay for large cable companies, whose lines stretch to the Philippines and the Far East.

It is an island about 30 miles long and six miles wide with a population of 18,620, about 1,100 miles from Manila and 1,700 miles from the Hawaiian Islands. Its population is made up of nine-tenths native Guamese, a people similar to the Filipinos. It has a growing population, however, having jumped 40 per cent in the last decade. The climate is like that of Manila.

Discovered Long Ago

Guam was known to Europeans a century before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock, having been discovered by Magellan himself during his historic voyage of 1521, when the ship he commanded up to the time of his death, succeeded in the first circumnavigation of the globe. The missionaries reached the island a century and a half later.

The natives of Guam, are, as a rule of good physique and pleasing appearance. Owing to their mixed blood, their complexion varies from the white of a Caucausian to the brown of a Malay. Most of them have glossy black hair, which is either straight or slightly curly. The men wear their hair short and the women long. Manila styles predominate. The people are about on an equal footing, there being few masters and few servants.

Seldom Visited

Guam is a lonely spot, seeing only a navy or army transport, a mail steamer, and a few American commercial ships maybe once a month. Tourists are unknown.

The official currency of the island is that of the United States, but the old Spanish code of laws, slightly modified, still is effective. English, Spanish and a native language is spoken. The schools are conducted in English. The chief exports are copra and cocoanut oil.

The governor of the island, a naval officer appointed by the President, takes precedence over and is entitled to the honors due an admiral.

Tricks of Beauty Trade Is Aid in Putting on T

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

MANY of my readers have written asking whether or not salt water is harmful to the hair and if I won't please explain how to prevent painful sunburn and at the same time acquire a nice even tan. First, let me say that salt water drys the hair and scalp, and, with the combination of salt water and sun, the hair will appear dry and bleached with a multitude of shades ranging from light blonde to dark brown and the ends of the hairs will be split. Therefore, over exposure to sun and salt water on the hair should be avoided.

Five or ten minutes' airing and sunning will aid greatly in beautifying the hair, but if one is to sit on the beach for several hours, I'd suggest a sun shade. When airing the hair run the fingers over the hair nad gives it a soft and luxuri- scalp, this serves as exercise to the ous appearance.

A strip of chamois tied bandeau fashion around the head and worn under the bathing cap will absorb any water and prevent it moistening the hair. If, however, salt water does get on the hair it should be rinsed off immediately.

Now about protecting the skin against sunburn. There are a number of special preparations for this purpose on the market, which not only prevent painful sunburn, but actually encourage tan. But, if the delicate coloring is to be protected, the skin should be so heavily coated that not even the piercing rays of Old Sol can reach the skin.

Theatrical grease paint is an old reliable and may be smoothed liberally over the skin. Grease paint comes in all shades and, if deftly handled, will give the skin a smooth and lovely appearance without even a faint hint o up, it is waterproof and main on for hours.

A generous coating of coc ter smoothed over the arm legs will prove excellnt in p ing sunburn and aid in ga lovely light tan. Olive oil al be used but because of it liquid consistency isn't as e or permanent as cocoa butt

When the above mention cial preparations are used, to follow directions, remem that a dip in the water rinse of the preparation from th so you'd better use another tion to be sure that the the sun will not leave burn prints on your exposed sk

Harrigan's Discovery

"...ed you all I know, ma'am. ...e was a man who called him... ...d Burnes here in Red Butte ... back that we're satisfied ... husband, Bruce Carey. ... Donovan who came huntin' ... was sure he was Bruce. Ac... to Jimmie Harrigan this ... boys or Bruce Carey, went ... the desert with a fellow ... Colorado Bill. If they have back... from the Tanks and gone ... Mountain, they can't go ... from Painted Mountain ... Drippin' Spring and back ... they should try to go through ... Center from the Tanks I ... two deputies in an automo... ... to pick 'em up when ... the road from here to ... So you can see, I'm as ... gettin' 'em as I would be if ... had 'em locked up—that ... course, unless the desert gets ... I've had this old desert ... to a man that I was want-in' more than once."

Ann gave a little cry and caught Old Tony's arm.

"I'm sorry, ma'am, but what can I do? My instructions from your sheriff at Orchard Hill was to get 'em."

"You mean," faltered Ann, "that you are going to arrest my husband and Pierre and send them back home as criminals?"

Before the sheriff could answer, Jimmie Harrigan and another man entered the office.

"Howdy, Jimmie?" said the sheriff. "Well, Henry, what do you know?" Where's Jeff?"

"Jeff'll be along directly, Sheriff. We met Jimmie here, as we was goin' from the Spring to the Tanks. He was on his way back and came in with us. He can tell you what's happened."

The newcomers looked curiously at Ann and Old Tony.

"These folks are interested," said the sheriff. "Go ahead Harrigan."

"Ye mind the lad, Pierre Donovan, that was wantin' me to help him find a man be the name av Bruce Carey?"

"Yes."

"Well, I took Pierre as far as the Spring. Like I said I would. I sure was sorry to see him startin' out for Mother Mountain all alone and him so scared av the desert, but wid guts to go on in spite av his fear. Well, somehow, all the way to my place in the Biscuit Hills I kept thinkin' av the lad. I'd warned him about strayin' off into Skeleton Sink, av course, but I feared he might make trouble fer himself in spite av all.

"So as soon as I'd got me outfit home I turned around and come back to Drippin' Spring to see if all was well. Nobody had been there. So then I hit the trail fer Blackwater Tanks. I found their outfit at the Tanks all right, wid no water in the Tanks. Pierre must have found his friend Bruce and Colorado because 'twas clear that there had been three av them there. By all the signs, one av the men had gone on toward Gold Center; one had started back to Drippin' Spring and one is there yet."

"No, ma'am, it wasn't Pierre that was left, an' it wasn't Colorado."

Old Tony took Ann in his arms and comforted her.

The Irishman continued: "There appeared to have been some sort av a fight. He was shot all right. An' there was a grave about half dug. He wasn't in it, but this was." He handed the sheriff a piece of white quartz.

The sheriff was examining the quartz when the other deputy came in.

The sheriff looked up and there was a snap in his voice as he asked: "You, Henry and Jeff, have you seen this?"

"Yes, sir," said Henry.

"Sure," replied Jeff.

"Well, it'll keep until we've finished this case—understand?" he said sharply.

The men nodded and the sheriff turned to the Irishman.

"There was a location notice," said Harrigan. "The names on it was Bruce Carey, Pierre Donovan and Roy Donovan.

"Just as I thought, ma'am, when you told me about Pierre's father interesting your husband in a mine out here. Colorado Bill is Roy Donovan. Who do you figure did the killin', Jimmie?"

"It must have been Colorado—that lad, Pierre, couldn't have done a thing like that."

"Then what happened?"

"I doubt, sir, if anybody will ever answer that till judgment day. 'Tis little chance the one that started for Gold Center has av ever gettin' through. And the one that started back fer Drippin' Spring must have drifted into Skeleton Sink or I would have met him. And ther's no man ever heard tell av anybody comin' out av that pit av hell alive."

"That's true enough, Jimmie," returned the sheriff, "but just the same we'll have a try." He turned to his deputies: "You boys hustle out and get all the riders you can find. We'll need pack mules and water kegs of course. We'll—"

He was interrupted by the entrance of two men who were half dragging, half carrying Roy Donovan.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

A Much-Subdued "Vamp" Departs

ALL that was conservative and regular in my character subscribed to Mary's wail that she had been an "unspeakable, vulgar little girl" in her tirade against Avis Arlen. But something stronger, more primitive than training had listened to her fiery outburst, and echoed it approvingly.

I put my hand upon her hair and smoothed it. "Shall I tell you a secret, Mary?" I asked with a purposeful laugh in my voice. "I never would have had the courage to say what you did just now,—but—I am very glad you had. It was exactly what that young woman needed. I imagine she'll walk quite softly while you are away."

Speed Parting Guests

"She'd better," Mary said with a vindictive little click of her teeth. "But what an old dear you are, Auntie Madge! You have saved me from blubbing all over the landscape. Well! I suppose we would better go in and 'speed the parting guests' or they will think I am crying my eyes out. Just a sec."

She dashed to the mirror in the hall, made several passes over her nose with an infinitesimal powder puff came prancing back to me and drew me through the door into the living room where Lillian, Harry and Dicky were talking volubly to the ugests who evidently were on the point of departure.

"Come here, Horatius!" Lillian called merrily as she saw me. "I have been standing at thy right hand long enough. The bridge shows signs of going down. Come over here, and show these good people that you know how to be a hostess, even if you haven't been working at it in the last ten minutes."

I crossed the room with Mary to the tune of the laughter which Lillian's sallies generally receive, and put out my hand to Mrs. Arlen.

"You're surely going to let us see more of you," I said cordially, making no apology whatever for my absence. "Could you not come to dinner with us the first part of next week?"

"I can answer that," Philip Veritzen said, decidedly. "I'm sorry, Millicent, but Mrs. Graham has a very important engagement with me for all her leisure time until her play is completed."

I do not think he intended the proprietary, employer-like air with which he invested the words, but I saw Dicky's fist clinch itself as if involuntarily, and I wished frantically Mr. Veritzen would get himself and his "family" out of the house before anything else was said to arouse the jealous anger which I feel that Dicky always has in leash against this man.

That Lillian had seen that involuntarily clenched fist also, I was sure, but even if she had not she knew his jealous temper as well as I did and came to the rescue of the situation promptly.

"I can echo that, Mrs Arlen," she said, and her air of casualness made it impossible for Dicky to betray any annoyance at Mr. Veritzen's little ways, without making himself supremely ridiculous.

"Mrs. Graham has to be looked after as if she were a patient in care of an alienist," she said, "otherwise we should have her in bed, completely exhausted by trying to do seven different things at once. Has Philip told you that she probably will be a celebrity before the year is out?"

Praise from the Highest

"No, I haven't told her," Philip Veritzen interposed hurriedly. "But I should have done so. I expect next year, Millicent, we shall all be extremely proud of being upon Mrs Graham's calling list. If the rest of her play comes up to the high standard of the first two acts, I believe that she will have a great artistic success to her credit. I Philip Veritzen, say so."

In almost any other man the phrasing would have been bombastic and ridiculous, but coming from the lips of the greatest theatrical producer of his time, it seemed a fitting and natural thing.

"When the play is finished," he went on, "I can release her from bondage, but I wish to rush it into production without delay, provided, of course, that the last two acts come up to the promise of the first two, so, my dear Millicent, I am afraid you will have to postpone any thought of social interchange with Mrs Graham until this stressful time is over. And now we really must be going. At three tomorrow, remember," he said to Lillian.

"It is written on my heart' alles samee Calais," Lillian replied, wrinkling her nose at him, and then with adieu, formal and informal, the party left, Dicky and Harry ushering them out to their car.

Avis Leaves Quietly and Quickly!

I noticed with a smile heroically suppressed, that Avis Arlen grasped the elder Veritzen's arm as she walked out, leaving her mother to the care of Noel. Evidentally the lesson Mary had given her was bearing fruit, temporarily at least.

The door had no sooner closed upon them than William put on a phonograph record again and skimmed into a dance with Marion.

"Congratulations!" she said. "I don't know just what you did to the yammering yearner, but it must have been plenty judging from the way she was crouching in her corner ever since she scuttled back in here. That ought to be your one good girl scout deed for the day, but I have another job for you. Dance a while longer. If you want to, but see that you all get to bed not later than eleven, and tell the gentlemen of the party 'good night' for us."

She turned to me and put her hand through my arm.

"Come on, old dear," she said, "you can't stall any longer. We must finish that third act."

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday, and it was as hot as Saturday was. I bet pretty soon a fella won't need to build a fire to roast corn. All he will have to do will be to set it out in the sun and if it don't roast it will pop.

I woke up at daylight and I rolled over and looked at Jubilee. He didn't have to roll over to look at me because he is always turned my way looking at me. A dog is that way. I got up and let him down and then I got into my short britches and went down and got the pail and started out to milk the dummed brutes. When it is winter time and I let him down by the rope in his teeth and go down to milk he is running circles in the yard in the snow. But yesterday morning he was laying on the back step grinning at me when I went out and his tongue was hanging out, so I took him out to the barn with me and when I got started milking he sot up and opened his face and I gave him a few squirts, and then the bunch came, and they said we ought to get in all of our swimming this month because next month will be dog-days and a fella will get sunburn bladders all over him and will maybe got hydrophobia and bite someone and have to be shot. I had never heard about that one, and I said I wouldn't bite anyone if I was going to be shot for it, but Shrimp said if I had hydrophobia I couldn't help it.

I told Shrimp I was going to get in swimming next chance I got, of course as I always had, and I was going to make me quit a lot of the people I would hope if I had to bite someone. The Last King of Tokyo said he would bite the schoolmaster, the first thing. But I like the schoolmaster and I told him if he bit her he would have to bite me, and he said that would be all right with him because he had me up for spelling and I got up off the bottom about and told him to bite me once, and he said nobody that might have hydrophobia would bite anything that looked like me, so I continued milking and when I had my pail and my face and my suit were clean I told him I would get in the water if he would say and he said he would. This was Monday and Red's father was going hucking with his new truck the same way we were going, and he had Red's kid brother with him, and he gave us a ride, and he stopped to sell a lady some pole beans, and he must have left the car in gear, because while he was standing up in the back the kid brother slid down off the seat and put his foot on the starter and Red's father and a big measure of beans fell out of the truck and all over the woman, and Banty fell over the front seat and stopped the car just when it was starting to climb a tree. The front bumper was bent and Red's father was mad, and the woman laughed at him. He said that was the last time we'd get a ride.

Pace-Setters of Three Circuits To Battle for Lead

SPHERE MAY BE DEAD BUT THAT FAILS TO STOP HEAVY HITTERS

Hits Rattle Off Bludgeons as Clubs Meet In Twin Bills Sunday.

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

THE new and less capricious ball that has given major league pitchers a new lease on life this season evidently is losing its magic qualities as the sun beams stronger and the batters begin to reach their top form. At any rate, the doctored sphere was forced to take a lusty beating over the week-end.

WAITE HOYT

Hitting predominated yesterday as 14 contests were unreeled in the two circuits, including a full set of doubleheaders in the National. Only 10 pitchers out of 28 who started were able to go the distance, and no club was held to less than two runs. Thirty runs crossed the plate in one tilt, 21 in another and 19 in a third. Hits for the most part ran into double figures.

Cubs, Cardinals Split

The Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals gave the day's most boisterous exhibition in the second game of their pair, the Cards pounding six Cub pitchers for 21 hits and a 17 to 13 victory. Three Card moundsmen gave up 16 hits. Chicago captured the first tilt, 7 to 5, largely the result of home runs by Hack Wilson and Hazen Cuyler. Both sides used three hurlers.

The crippled New York Giants took two free-hitting contests from the Phillies, 13 to 6, and 9 to 4, to pick up a full game on the Cards. Berly and Heving held the Phils to eight hits in the first, while Freddie Fitzsimmons allowed only six in the nightcap. Frank Hogan hit two home runs in the first game and Mel Ott a pair in the second.

Reds Win Two

Cincinnati's last place Reds came back after five straight defeats to sweep their holiday bill with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Red Lucas bested three Pirate twirlers, 14 to 7, in the opener. The second, a pitchers' battle, went 11 innings before the Reds won out, 6 to 5.

HERB PENNOCK

Adolfo Luque, Brooklyn's veteran Cuban, pitched his fifth victory of the year as the Robins downed the Boston Braves, 7 to 4, but the Braves fought 12 innings to win the added attraction, 4 to 3. Socks Seibold went the route for the winners.

A pair of Connie Mack's second line pitchers, Waite Hoyt and Leroy Mahaffey, gave the Athletics a clean sweep over the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 2, and 6 to 2. Hoyt allowed only six hits in the first, while Simmons and Foxx contributed home runs. Mahaffey gave up seven in the nightcap, which was called at the end of the sixth to comply with a Sunday law.

Senators Drop Back

The two wins enabled the leaders to pick up a game and a half on the second place Washington Senators, who were tamed by the Yankee Veteran, Herb Pennock, 10 to 4, in a single game at Washington. Both teams made 11 hits, but five Senator errors damaged their cause.

Cleveland and Chicago divided their American league doubleheader, the Indians winning the first behind Wes Ferrell's steady pitching, 10 to 4, but losing the nightcap, 7 to 5, when the White Sox jumped on Mel Harder for three runs in the seventh inning.

Elon Hogsett of the Detroit Tigers gave the day's best pitching exhibition when he held the St. Louis Browns to four hits and beat them, 7 to 2. He also helped the cause along with three hits off a trio of opposing hurlers.

Morral Beats Harpster in Sunday Contest 9-8

Morral greeted Harpster's entrance into the Rural Community league yesterday afternoon by handing the newcomers a 9-8 beating on the Lincoln park diamond. Hits were numerous in both games, Morral's hurler being nicked for 14 hits while Harpster's moundsman was touched for 11. Morral committed five errors while six miscues were charged to Harpster.

STANDINGS DUE FOR SHAKEUP AS SKED MATCHES LEADERS

St. Paul-Christian Seniors; Bishop-Calvary; C., D. & M.-Huber Games Are Highlights.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star.

CHAMPIONSHIPS are in the making in three of the four soft ball leagues this week. The title winners of the three may not be definitely decided but by the end of the next six days fans should have some idea of who is likely to emerge from the warfare with the pennant in their possession.

The three leagues in which at least partial order should come out of chaos are the Nos. 1 and 2 Sunday school and the Industrial. The Commercial circuit will merely mark time this week, tail-enders for the most part clashing with first division teams. It will be at least two weeks before activity picks up in the Friday league to any extent.

First Place at Stake

The St. Paul Lutherans and Christians Seniors will get things off to a flying start in the No. 2 league today. The former team is now pacing the field by half a game and should they get by the Christians will have hurdled one of the most serious obstacles in the road to the flag. A victory will not assure them of the gonfalon for the Presbyterians are yet to be met but it will be a big boost. The Christians will probably go into the game a slight favorite to win

The Presbyterians, another flag contender, will meet the United Brethren who administered a surprise beating to them in the first round of play. The U. B. nine will go into the game anxious to make it two straight but probably won't accomplish the feat. If they do it means the exodous of the Presbies from the race.

The "Crooc1al" Game

After several weeks of having more than one team claiming the top post of the circuit, the No. 1 league is certain to have a single leader after Tuesday. Calvary and Epworth Bishops, co-leaders, will clash on the Shovel Athletic field in a battle for first place. The Bishops have been playing surprisingly well lately but unfortunately apparently have a habit of folding up when they meet the Calvary nine. Calvary undoubtedly will be a heavy favorite to win the game but the Bishops should at least give them a good battle if they play the ball of which they are capable.

The loser of this game is due for a considerable of a slide down the standings scale as the two second place teams, St. Mary and Trinity Baptist also lock horns. This game rates nearly as much importance as the first place setto for the winner will still be very much in the race for the championship.

Mound Stars Clash

The C., D. & M. Electricians and Huber Manufacturers will probably decide the winner of the Industrial league pennant Thursday when they meet at Garfield park. Both are tied for the lead with eight won and one lost and there is not another team in the league which seems to have sufficient strength to dispose of either. The two should finish the season in one-two order. Which of the two will be first is another story. The Huber seems a little the stronger in all around ability so it gets the call as slight favorites. It will be Kellogg against Gamble on the mound, two speed ball artists opposing each other. Strikeouts will be plentiful in this game. That is certain. The winner isn't.

Marking Time

The Serv-U-Wel Grocers and K. of P. teams will furnish the only relief from a schedule of "just some more ball games" Friday in the Commercial league. Until the outcome of a protest is decided tonight by the city commission it cannot be said whether the latter team is in the flag race or not but regardless of this they have a good team, one capable of giving the Grocers a tough battle from start to finish. If the commission gives a game played last Friday with the Kappas to the fraternal nine it will put them in the running for the title. If the game is allowed to stand the K. of P.'s will not have much of an opportunity to finish in the money.

Wednesday of this week has been given over to the playing of a double header benefit bill, with the proceeds to go toward the assistance of Don Cox and Stewart Jones, both injured recently in soft ball games. The Huber company will meet Serv-U-Wel at 6 p. m. with the Presbyterians and St. Mary due to clash immediately following. The admission to this program will be a dime.

120 FEMININE STARS START IN QUEST OF OHIO WOMEN'S TITLE

Mary Hauck, O. S. U. Student, Defends Crown Against Brilliant Field

By The Associated Press

WESTWOOD CLUB, CLEVELAND, O., July 13—Golf saturated Ohio today starts the fifth consecutive week of championships when a field of more than 120 feminine stars from all sections of the state gather for a try at the Buckeye crown which now adorns the head of Mary Hauck, 21-year-old Ohio State university student from Toledo.

One of the strongest fields ever to enter the women's championship has gathered on Lake Erie's edge where tempestuous squalls are likely to sweep the course any minute. Beside Miss Hauck, two former state champions are on hand trying to regain the title. They are Mrs. Curtis Sohl of Columbus, and Mrs. Julian Tyler of Cleveland.

The diminutive Toledo girl, who broke into prominence last year at Columbus, when she defeated Mrs. Sohl in the final round, has served notice that she will not relinquish her title without a battle. Twice in the practice rounds at Westwood she has turned in an 83, one stroke over the course record now held by Mrs. R. E. Lawrence of Cleveland.

Westwood presents a true but not unfair test of golf, placing a high premium on straight and far tee shots, stretching over 6,277 yards, well bunkered, trapped and wooded the course is considered one of the best in this section of the state, one that will ruin many a championship hope before nightfall.

COLUMBUS, O., July 13—Having led the field in the opening round, Walter Delscamp of Dayton was a favorite today to win the Central Ohio public links golf championship which will be concluded next Sunday.

The first 18 holes were played at two courses yesterday with Delscamp shooting a 78 at the Fairmount links in Dayton. He was trailed closely by his fellow townsman, Ray Willowelt who had a 79.

Playing at Indian Springs, Columbus, Herb Bash and Bill Hoyt tied for third low score with 80s. They live in Columbus. Bill Baker of Dayton, the defending titlist, was off his game. He had an 85.

In the 18-hole final next Sunday, the entries who started the tournament at Indian Springs will go to Dayton course while the Fairmount contestants will transfer their activities here. Approximately 50 players are competing.

IT HAS been quite a long time since the protest of a ball game has evoked such a storm of comment as the one which the commission will hear tonight concerning the K. of P. and Kappa game of last Friday. The Kappas won the game in an eight inning affair 3-2. The K. of P. manager promptly appealed it on the grounds of an error in a technical ruling by the base umpire, William "Pop" Wiley.

Which of the teams is right is up to the commission to decide. That body will probably have a lot of help in making its decision (in case they care to accept said help) for both managers have signified an intention of being VERY MUCH PRESENT at the meeting! Apparently both sides of the argument has merits. Which has the most is up to the commission. It will probably decide the question without any high pressure assistance on the part of either manager. It looks like a big evening for the commission. (Visitors might as well stay away as no lunch will be served.)

Y-Indus Pushes

Managers and captains of the city softball teams are evincing a genuine interest in the selling of tickets for the benefit movie being promoted by the Y-Indus club for the aid of Don. Cox and Stewart Jones, injured softball players. Kenneth Crawford, director of ticket sales for the club reports the managers as being glad to aid the project. Nearly every one approached who has anything to do with softball appears willing to help. Dick Cheney, a reporter for The Star gets the honor of being the first individual to contribute his 35c for a ticket.

The Y-Indus club is promoting this project purely on its own initiative. Most of the members are ball players but are in no way officially connected with the game. Help them put it across. An accident might befall you sometime in softball. Don't forget that.

It Might Interest

Only one no-hit, no-run game has been pitched this year, that one by Starling Somerlot for the Serv-U-Wel against the Erie Traffic club ....the Huber company has the most extra base hits in the Industrial circut, 31 including six homers ....the Roundhouse is next with 19 ....the Erie traffic club leads in the Commercial with 26, Kappas and Serv-U-Wel trailing with 21 and 20....Calvary leads No. 1 Sunday school with 28, the others being too far back to bother counting....Presbyterians lead No. 2 circuit with 24, the others also being far behind in this loop.... home runs are fewer this year than last....Kenneth Galiant of the Presbyterians has the most with three to his credit (these are figured by leagues, a player competing in two teams maybe having more).....all the hullabaloo about using gloves is dying down now....errors being fewer and also hits....scoras are generally lower this year than last—not counting of course the 22-0 shellacking given the C. & O. by the Huber company threats of little less than murder have been made on my person for saying what I think about happenings in softball. ..I have my harp all selected but I am wondering what the pearly gates look like.

SHOVEL VICTOR

Wallops Mt. Victory 13-1 in Central Ohio League Game.

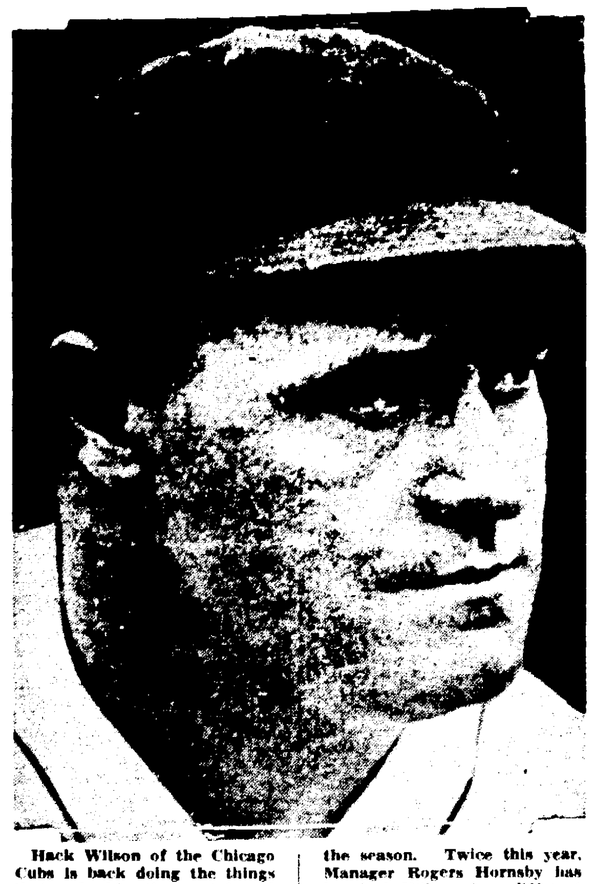
The heavy hitting team of the Marion Steam Shovel company went on another of its chacteristic hitting sprees Saturday afternoon and pounded out a one-sided 13-1 victory over Mt. Victory. The contest was a league game of the Central Ohio baseball league and was played at the Shovel Athletic field. The Shovel nine reached a pair of Mt. Victory hurlers for 17 hits which coupled with three errors gave the mthe 13 scores. Darnell and Longshore, Shovel pitchers, were nicked for only four safe bingles.

Batteries and score by innings:

				R.	H.	E.
Steam Shovel	032	521	00—	13	17	1
Mt. Victory	001	000	00—	1	4	3

Steam Shovel, Darnell, Longshore and Conroy; Mt. Victory, Smith, McClure and Drumm.

Wilson Out of Slump



Hack Wilson of the Chicago Cubs is back doing the things that make him the most feared batter and most colorful player in the National circuit. His fielding in left has been good and he is getting back his batting eye after a disastrous slump during the first part of the season. Twice this year, Manager Rogers Hornsby has benched Wilson for different reasons but now the clubber seems fairly well assured of keeping his post in the lineup. That is—unless he again loses his ability to hit or stays out too late at night.

Two Champions to Defend Ring Titles During Week

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 13—Two monarchs of the fistic realm sally forth tonight in title defenses at Los Angeles and New York.

Tony Canzoneri, lightweight and junior welterweight champion; defends the latter title, against Cecil Payne, free-swinging battler from Louisville, Ky., at Los Angeles over the 10 round route. Canzoneri, one of the ring's greatest fighters, rules a 2 to 1 favorite to beat Payne for the second time. He outpointed the Kentucklan at Detroit in 1929.

The other title fight, at the Coney Island stadium here, brings together Midget Wolgast, speedy Philadelphian, and Ruby Bradley, Holyoke, Mass., Negro, at the championship distance of 15 pounds This bout originally was scheduled for last Friday but rain forced a postponement. Wolgast is a heavy betting favorite.

Of perhaps greater interest to the metropolitan fans is the first New York appearance of the up and coming Duluth heavyweight, Charley Retzlaff, who meets Ralph Ficucello, New York, in the Queensboro stadium tomorrow night.

Benny Bass of Philadelphia tackles Kid Chocolate, the Cuban Negro flash, in a 10 round battle at Philadelphia, Wednesday night, and on the same night, at Detroit, Ace Hudkins, Nebraska heavyweight, will encounter Chuck Burns.

Marion, Ohio,
May 23, 1931

Mr. Clifton Lower,
Lower's Pharmacy,
W. Center and Leader Sts.
Dear Mr. Lower:
I greatly appreciate this opportunity of saying a few words regarding the benefit I have derived from taking Diamond Blood Capsules, purchased at your drugstore. I am 20 years old and reside at 767 Bennett st., this city. I was born in Marion. I have a large number of friends and acquaintances that know me, especially at the Commercial Steel Casting Co. They remember me as being troubled with anemia with an unsightly skin disturbance, the result of bad blood conditions. Prior to taking Diamond Blood Capsules I spent $500 to $600 with serum treatments, etc., without any special benefit. During the last two years my condition was such that I was frequently unable to work for many days at a time. Cliff Walters of Leader st., a friend, directed my attention to Diamond Blood Capsules. Three months ago I purchased my first bottle of capsules at your store. In all to date I have taken three large bottles. Believe it or not, my skin is clearing up. My strength is better than at any other time in my life. My blood is back to normal. You have my full permission to use this letter publicly in order that others now suffering may be able to regain their health.
Respectfully,
Willard Larcom.

Concentrated liver with all its properties for producing rich new blood combined with cleansing agencies to drive poison and impurities from your system and cleanse your blood and you have the story of Diamond Blood Building capsules.

For them, we do not claim they are a "cure-all," but we do claim that regardless of the nature of your ailment, if you are in a weakened condition of any sort or failing in any way, you will not make a mistake in taking Diamond Blood Building capsules.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Today found dealers restocking after the usual heavy week-end buying and with prices showing but little change from the last week. Most of the specials offered Saturday were selling at regular prices today. Green vegetables were plentiful, although growers report the dry weather of last week has dried up a large part of the pea crop as well as head lettuce. The price of peas was holding at three pounds for 25 cents this morning.

Green and yellow wax beans were plentiful and were selling at most places at three pounds for 25 cents. Cabbage was selling today at three and four cents with a fairly large supply. Potatoes continue plentiful and dealers were asking from 30 to 40 cents today.

Strawberries have practically disappeared from the markets, a few on the market today that were selling at from 17 to 20 cents. The dry weather of last week has also materially reduced the raspberry crop, a few were coming on the market today that were selling at from 20 to 25 cents. Watermelons are becoming more plentiful and dealers report ready sales at from 40 to 70 cents.

GERMAN CRISIS AFFECTS WHEAT

Backswings Recorded on Chicago Mart; New Bottoms Hit in Some Cases.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 13 — Influenced by Germany's financial crisis and by new stock market weakness, grain prices underwent sharp early setbacks today. In a flurry of stop loss selling all deliveries of wheat, corn and oats except July corn fell to new bottom records. Opening 3-8 cents down, wheat afterward sagged further. Corn started 3-4@2 off and subsequently held near the initial limits.

Almost immediately wheat dropped to below 51 cents a bushel for this month's contracts, and went to within 1-2 cent of the lowest level ever touched on the Chicago board of trade by any future delivery of wheat.

Simultaneously corn tumbled to a depth unreached heretofore since 1910. Contributing to weakness of all grains were big receipts of newly harvested domestic wheat, including 2,947 cars at Kansas City, compared with 2,119 a week ago and 1,178 at this time last year. Chicago wheat arrivals totaled 950 cars against 512 on the corresponding day last week and 382 in 1930.

Reports of pressure of Russian offerings of wheat at Liverpool had an addition bearish effect, unrelieved by small decrease of the amount of wheat on ocean passage. On the price downswings, however, a steadying influence was some buying based on the fact that the market had been breaking for more than a week. It was urged that this circumstance alone would warrant rallies, particularly as wheat had now become the cheapest of foods. Corn and oats were bearishly affected by wheat weakness and by auspicious weather for corn growth.

Provisions gave way with hog values and with cereals.

waukee. The Saints scored eight runs in the first two innings of the opener, but had to repel a ninth inning rally by the Hens to get the decision. A two-run effort in the seventh at the expense of Carl Mays gave them the edge in the second contest.

Remy Bengough became the hero of 11,838 Milwaukee fans when he cracked out a home run with two men on in the ninth inning to give the Brewers a 10 to 8 victory over Louisville in the second game, after the Colonels had won the opener, 15 to 5. Bengough was carried from the field by a number of customers.

Errors, three of them, by Danny Bloxsom, helped Louisville to eight runs in the first, making the Colonels' 21 hits more than ample. Bill Herman, Louisville infielder, accounted for a homer in each game.

Parmalee Wins

Bud Parmalee held Minneapolis to five hits in the first game of another double bill to help Columbus to an 11 to 1 victory, but the Millers hopped onto Chapman and Ash for 17 hits and a 15 to 5 decision on the other one. Max Thomas outpitched Oral Hildebrand in the second game to give Kansas City a 3 to 2 edge over Indianapolis, after the Indians had won the first one, 10 to 7.

JEAN HARLOW AT MARION TONIGHT

Two sailors, Spencer Tracy and Warren Hymer, with a weakness for women talk their way through "Goldie" at the Marion tonight and Tuesday. Jean Harlow comes in as a carnival high diver when the picture's half through, and complicates matters a little. Tracy is on to her game, but Hymer falls. There's some trouble before Hymer is made to see the light, and together they "swear off the dames" only to be falling for a couple more at the fadeout. Two short subjects, a Talkertoon and a newsreel are on the bill. H. H.

Flag Helps Golfer Make Record Shot

By International News Service

ASHTABULA, O., July 13—Thad Woodman, Ashtabula niblick-welder, is perhaps the only golfer in the history of the game who has flagged down an eagle.

Thad did just that on the Ashtabula country club course here recently while playing for hole No. 7. The hole is a tough par five and only two or three golfers have ever made it in three, which was Woodman's score.

Woodman's first shot traveled straight and fast for the cup 450 yards away, and his second shot left him only a short distance from the green.

His mashie shot was hard and high, apparently destined to travel far beyond the green and land in the rough. Instead, the flapping No. 7 flag caught the ball and deflected it into the cup for an eagle.

HEAT TAKES TOLL OF COUNTY LIVESTOCK

Estimate 20 Head Killed Here; Other Districts Hit Hard.

Marion county farmers have lost approximately 20 head of livestock in the last 20 days as a result of the early summer heat wave which caused death and damage all over the country, a checkup today disclosed.

No fewer than a dozen horses were killed by the heat, most of them while working in the fields, during the heat wave's stay in this county. Surrounding counties were even harder hit, with Morrow county losing approximately 18 horses.

In some counties, the livestock toll ran into hundreds with horses, hogs, cows, sheep, chickens, geese, turkeys and ducks killed.

Madison county losses include 150 horses, 150 fat hogs, 50 cows, and other livestock, according to the Associated Press. Most of the horses fell dead while at work in harvest fields in spite of care exercised by farmers. The hogs, even though supplied with water, could not withstand the terrific heat.

Helpless Girl Needs Wagon To Visit Doctor

AN appeal for a small wagon or go-cart suitable for conveying a helpless four-year-old girl to the doctor for treatments was made today by Red Cross and city nurses.

The girl can not talk not sit up. She has been taking light ray treatments given her without charge by a Marion doctor, but in the last week has had no means of getting to the office for the treatments.

Up until a week ago, a neighbor offered the services of an automobile, but since this is gone, the mother finds it almost impossible to carry the four-year-old girl nearly five miles to the office and back to the home every other day.

Any one willing to donate such a wagon should communicate with the city and county health offices by calling 2636 or by visiting the offices on the first floor of the court house.
